

Fabulous at Fifty!

“Although I’m not usually the one in front of the camera, it’s important to me to invest in my own smile. People tell me I look better than I did 15 years go – thanks to Team Atlanta,” says Atlanta makeup artist and entrepreneur Rhonda Barrymore, who has been the makeup artist for the past 4 Olympic television broadcasts with NBC.

Rhonda Barrymore is a fifth-generation Atlantan and self-described “Southern belle.” She’s also a professional makeup artist who understands that beauty requires vigilance.

After years of dissatisfaction (she calls them “horror stories”) with other dentists, a friend recommended the Buckhead offices of Goldstein, Garber, Salama & Beaudreau, known locally and worldwide as Team Atlanta Esthetic Dentistry. After consulting with founder Dr. Ronald Goldstein, Rhonda learned that her crowded bottom teeth could eventually result in compromised bone structure. The possibility of dentures did not set well with this incredibly youthful, 50-year-old grandmother.

Invisible Device, Visible Results

Dr. Goldstein and Team Atlanta orthodontist Dr. Maurice Salama recommended Invisalign, the invisible tooth-straightening technique. Invisalign uses a painless, invisible, removable plastic retainer. Within seven months, Rhonda’s teeth were beautifully straight. She also had laser tooth whitening, tooth reshaping and will follow up with some crowns. The result is a knockout smile and top-notch dental health.

“It’s not enough to focus on surface beauty,” explains Rhonda. “It’s like redecorating an old house without making structural changes.” Whether she’s consulting with network television personalities, movie stars or just folks, Rhonda takes a similar approach. “If someone comes to me for makeup, but they have underlying skin problems, it’s my duty to point that out. Pardon the pun, but I believe our teeth are the root of our beauty,” she concludes.

Rhonda has found her dental home in Team Atlanta, which also includes Dr. David Garber, Dr. Henry Salama, Dr. Brian Beaudreau, Dr. Angie Gribble Hedlund and Dr. Maha El-Sayed. “This office is a very, very special place. When I go to them for care, I know I’m going to be extremely happy with the results.”
